Abstract (en)
[origin: EP2130624A1] The bench has an anchoring frame (1) at which multiple grip units (2) are rotatably supported and driven in respective rotation positions. The grip units are detachably fastened for positioning containers (3) which are to be straightened, to the anchoring frame at the container. The grip unit has a ball joint (8) for rotatably supporting at the anchoring frame. The grip unit is formed at the container with a rectangular layout for attachment to a container base (4) within the region of container corners.
