Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2008114173A1] A device for dispensing toothpaste from a flexible tube containing said paste, comprising a winding roller (6) with means (15) for removably retaining the rear end of the tube, the roller (6) being suitable for winding the tube around itself as a result of a rotation around its own axis, during which the tube is passed between the winding roller (6) and an opposing roller (8) and pressed against the latter in order to squeeze the toothpaste from its other end. An oral hygiene kit comprising a device for dispensing toothpaste from a tube containing said paste, at least one toothbrush inserted in a housing attached to said device, a container for interdental brushes and the related accessories, a container for dental floss and a container for mouthwash is also provided.
