Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2008130237A1] A packaging comprises a reclosable assembly of a bottom element (10) and a window element (20), which together enclose a product space for receiving at least one product therein, in particular a food product. The bottom element comprises a bottom (11), from either side of which at least parts of opposite first side walls (12) extend which are connected in at least substantially freely pivotable manner to the bottom. The window element comprises an at least substantially transparent top sheet (21), from which opposite further side walls (22) extend on both sides which support on the bottom. The at least parts of the first side walls (21) mutually enclose the window element and maintain a mutual distance over which the set of further side walls (22) is at least largely transparent.
