Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2008128258A1] The invention relates to a coupling for detachably connecting a mobile part of a piece of furniture to a drive. Said coupling comprises a coupling element that can be moved between the mobile part (8) of the piece of furniture and the drive (5) in a limited manner in at least one direction, in order to compensate position tolerances in relation to the at least one direction.
