Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2008152414A1] There is provided an article of footwear in the form of a boot which is ideally suited for use as a pram boot for babies. The boot has a forward section (12), a sole (11) and a heel section (13). The sole and forward section may be made from a flexible material such as leather and the heel section is made from an elastic material such as natural or synthetic rubber. The heel section can be resiliently deformed downwardly to a position below the sole to allow easy insertion of the foot into the forward section and can be resiliently deformed upwardly to a position above the sole which retains the foot in the boot.
