Abstract (en)
[origin: EP2163700A2] The facade (1) has a set of glass plates (2-5) arranged in a vertical glass plate row and mutually overlapping with each other in roof tiles when viewed from a depth direction (18), such that a horizontally extending overlap region (22) is present in a width direction (20). The glass plates in a horizontal glass plate row are mutually overlapped with each other in roof tiles when viewed from the depth direction, such that a vertically extending overlap region is present in a height direction (19), where the glass plates do not contact with each other directly and have a depth distance.
