Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2166176A2] The strip element (1) has at least one indentation (5) in a first recess (4) bounding the spring region (3), to take a fixing device (6) to fix the strip element to a structure under it or to the surface of a building. The length of the groove region (2) is greater than that of the spring region, so that the spring region and part of the recess can be covered by the groove region when two or more strip elements are connected.
