Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2008148968A1] The invention relates to depigmenting compositions and to the uses thereof. In particular, the compositions according to the invention show improved effectiveness in the dermatological or cosmetic treatment of pigmentation, without the drawbacks of the prior art compositions. The invention relates to a dermatological or cosmetic composition comprising, in a physiologically acceptable medium, at least one compound selected from rucinol or salts thereof, and at least one retinoid. It also relates to the use thereof for the dermatological prevention and/or treatment of hyperpigmentation of the skin, and also to the cosmetic use thereof in photo-induced or chronological ageing of the skin or of the integuments.
