Abstract (en)

An apparatus for the production of blocks of agglomerated material from loose material (30) comprises: - at least one first container (110; 110) for storing material (30) to be compacted; - means (20;1020) for feeding the loose material (30) to be compacted to the said container; - means (130;1130) for compressing the loose material (110), associated with the said storage container (110;1110); - means for discontinuous operation of the feeding and compression means, able to perform the alternate feeding and compression of successive layers of loose material until the final axial dimension of the compacted block of agglomerated material is obtained.
