Abstract (en)

The invention relates to a public sanitary facility (1), comprising a housing (2) intended for placing underground, and a wall (3) adapted to collect urine. The wall is mounted on the housing for pivoting between an underground rest position and an above-ground position of use. The housing also comprises a floor (10A, 10B) which is movable between a rest position, in which the floor is situated in the housing, and a position of use in which the floor is situated substantially parallel to street level.
