Abstract (en)
[origin: US2010218369A1] A cable harness production system for producing a cable harness includes at least one elongated substantially vertical post that can be fixed to a foot on a bearing plate and, which carries on the tip thereof, either a receiving element for receiving a functional element connected to the cable harness or a cable laying aid for directly guiding the cable harness. The receiving element or the cable laying aid can be mounted onto the tip and the form of the tip is complementary to that of a recess on the lower side of the receiving element or the lower side of the cable laying aid.
