Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2189093A2] The device (1) has a handle (7) hingedly connected with a retaining device (2). The hinged connection is locked around an axis (9) that is perpendicular to a longitudinal extension of a release lip (6). The retaining device has a support block for receiving the axis. A lug or a pin is retained in a recess or a hole in a release position, where the lug or the pin and/or the recess or the hole is an integral component of the hinged connection. A wipe plate (3) e.g. sponge plate and the release element are arranged in planes that are parallel to each other.
