Abstract (en)
[origin: EP2191765A2] The mat (1) has supporting rods (2) arranged parallel to each other with a longitudinal axis and connected with each other at a distance by a connecting unit. A locking block (11) i.e. profile strip, is formed at left and right mat edges transverse to the longitudinal axis of the rods, and includes an insertion opening (15) facing towards a front end (9) of the rods. The locking block on an upper side of the rods runs in alignment with the connecting unit, where the locking block is assigned along the longitudinal axis for engaging a rail joiner (12) that is adjusted in the opening.
