Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2009027229A1] The invention relates to a work and lounge module for providing a cockpit and for accommodating at least one pilot of an aircraft. To this end, the work and lounge modules have a work area and a lounge area, wherein the work area contains all equipment for controlling and guiding the airplane. The lounge area contains at least one element, selected from the group consisting of a rest area and lavatory facilities. In addition, the module is separated from a passenger area by at least one security partition.
