Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2009147464A1] The summary of my invention / hypothesis to set forth a theory is, with the assistance of gravity power of heavyweight piston(object), pressurize the air in a cylinder. With this process we convert the mechanical power and movement to the pneumatic fluid power. In the mean time the compressed air which we obtain in cylinders we also provided the required air of hoist to installing / set up the system (raise above the piston) again and again. Namely; self acting. This clean and abundant energy source (uninterruptible power station) is totally pollution free with no concerns about fuel even no need for any volatile chemicals, too. The pneumatic fluid power in other words compressed air which we obtain in cylinders, we transfer it directly to specific designed air turbines and so again we convert pneumatic fluid power to mechanical power and movement again. And finally, the mechanical power we obtained with the assistance of best fit drive train to rotate the rotor of generator and thus, produce electric. From on air turbine stage; we can use this mechanical power and movement in many other fields as well. But the only single handicap of my power station, because it has a large volume. But, on the other hand, in all other respects, in terms of usefulness it is superlative. As a common knowledge in our world continuously increasing electricity requirements. When we use my clean power station (energy source) is best-mode and can solve the electric energy problem. When we replace my power station with all current electric power plants, in this case we stops forever damaging to environment. Some well-wisher proposition : I am in hope / desire, the noncontributory of any fuel, cleanest, no any harmful emission to atmosphere, endless-loop, no need energy storage and uninterruptible power station (invention / theory) will be good news of our tremendous world, which it will break the neck of a task of energy problem and partly global warming too.
