Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2009046796A1] According to the invention, data regarding driving performance of vehicles (3) included in the method are transmitted to a central electronic unit (1) in a vehicle-specific fashion via communications connections (6), said data being captured or detected by units (2) inside the vehicle (3). Driving performance-related data, for example, leasing rates, are detected at least as a function of the data regarding the driving performance of the respective vehicle (3) by the central electronic unit (1).
