Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2216187A2] The method involves providing negative marks by an existing object, and filling the negative marks with hardenable masses e.g. concrete or mortar, where the masses are hardened in the negative marks, according to which the object is made from the hardened masses. Miniature mold parts of the masses are provided depending on the hardened masses and combined to a whole model on the basis of which the object is made. The negative marks are made a moldable plastic e.g. latex. The miniature mold parts and/or whole model are provided with a measure of 1:15 to 1:50. The object is designed as a natural object such as rock face.
