Abstract (en)
[origin: EP2218857A1] The partition (1) has a thin glass plate (10) connected with a running gear (2A) at an upper side (1T) by an installation profile (11A). The running gear is guided in a guide rail (3A). The plate is connected with a guiding device (2B) at a lower side (1B) by another installation profile (11B). The installation profiles are attached with retaining devices (13A, 13B) on a side of the plate. The retaining devices are connected with each other using a connection element, where the force generated on the mobile partition is partially compensated by the retaining devices.
