Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2220989A1] A dish-holding insert (1) for a dishwasher rack (R) consists of a series of substantially arc-shaped elements (2) connected in line, each of said elements (2) comprising an arcuate horizontal opening (3) and a lateral projecting portion (4) in which there is formed a vertical hole (5), the holes (5) having size, shape and pitch suitable to fit the insert (1) over a row of plate-holding supports (V) of the rack (R) and the top portion (6) having a pointed shape in order to prevent the clinging of water drops in the regions of contact between the dishes and the rack (R) such as to improve the drying performance with a negligible increase in costs.
