Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2009088823A2] A computer-implemented method may include providing an administrator with access to device-setting policies of a first mobile-computing device of a first user. The method may also include receiving a first device-setting policy for the mobile-computing device from the administrator and receiving an identification of a first physical location from the administrator. The method may include detecting that the first mobile-computing device is within the first physical location and implementing the first device-setting policy on the mobile-computing device after detecting that the first mobile-computing device is within the first physical location. Additional methods, systems, and computer-readable media are also disclosed.
