Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2236683A1] The shower gutter (2) has a gutter body (3) with a lateral opening (4) for inputting shower water into the gutter body. A sealing element (5) partially closes the opening. Attachment units (6) are partially arranged within the gutter body. The sealing element is flexibly connected with the gutter body using the attachment units. The gutter body has a base (7), a rear wall (8), a top side (9) and two side walls (11, 12). The attachment units are designed such that the sealing element is moved between a closing position and an extraction position.
