Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2009093060A1] A shoe fitment comprising: a body member whereby the fitment can be mounted on a shoe; and a display mounted on, or incorporated in, the body member for viewing from outside a shoe on which the fitment is mounted, the display serving to provide decoration or information. Typically the display is a three dimensional component mounted on the body member and in a preferred version the display is a three dimensional component mounted on the body member which display is at least partly free to move relative to the body member. In another version the display is a surface which includes a letter and/or a number the surface being a part of, or being attached to, the body member.
