Abstract (en)
[origin: EP2243891A1] The slab has a wooden lower part including vertical and horizontal battens (1, 2) alternately arranged vertically and horizontally and integrated to each other. The horizontal batten has stops at an upper part. The vertical batten has stops arranged on one of vertical faces. A lower surface of the assembled battens forms a flat surface so as to constitute a ceiling. An upper part made of concrete (9) fills spaces (30) between the vertical battens and extends over height (h) above upper horizontal faces of the vertical battens.
