Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2255703A1] The display (10) has a supporting structure comprising a wall (14) rotated around a rotation axis (A1) relative to another wall (12) during conversion from a transport position into a usage position. Trays (30-36) comprise a bending line (40) that runs in a tray level in the usage position. The tray is connected with the supporting structure using a connector e.g. locking strap and adhesive strap, in the transport position. The tray is supported in the usage position by the connector and two supporting points on a side of the bending line, which lies opposite to the connector. An independent claim is also included for a method for delivering and setting a goods stand-up display.
