Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2009118480A2] The invention relates to a method for making buildings from prefabricated modules comprising filtering formworks each including at least two bearing structures (S1, S2) each comprising two walls located in intersecting or parallel planes (P11, P12, P21, P22), each including fittings (111, 121, 211, 221, 112, 122, 212, 222) arranged in two intersecting or substantially orthogonal directions, said walls (P11, P12, P21, P22) being maintained at a required distance by struts (31, 32), provided that the two bearing structures (S1, S2) are hinged relative to each other by a rotary link including a fitting (111) of one of said parallel walls (P11) of the first bearing structure (S1) and one of said struts (3) of the second bearing structure (S2).
