Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2267210A1] The machine has a mechanism for automatic adding of detergents in correct proportion from storage containers (9-12) during a laundry treatment process. The storage containers are formed from hollow bodies and grouped within a projection of a front side (2) of a housing (1) at a loading door (3). The hollow bodies cover the front side of the housing and exhibit equivalent contours (13) at the loading door. Depth of the hollow bodies is high such that a surface of the front-side is formed with a side projection of the loading door.
