Abstract (en)

[origin: US2011143816A1] A portable device for displaying information, in particular a mobile telephone, having a display for outputting image or text information, a detection system, and an output unit. The detection system is designed to detect an approach of the portable device to an object. The output unit may output a warning signal in the event of a predefined approach to the object, in particular a defined distance.
