Abstract (en)
[origin: EP2293156A1] The display has a rotative transparent disk comprising a pattern i.e. design, with broken tracks respectively associated to vertical segments (a-d) of a pattern (3) i.e. aperture, of mirror. The mirror and the disk are superimposed such that the patterns are superimposed. The patterns are arranged such that overlapping zones are visible to a user and non-overlapping zones are invisible or less visible. The mirror and the disk are displaced along a preset direction for successively displaying different characters by different overlapping configurations between the patterns.
