Abstract (en)
[origin: EP2314914A1] The device (1) has a spring element (20) arranged at a light housing or a mounting frame (90) for a built-in light. The spring element is transferred from a mounting position into a locking position by lateral deformation. An actuation unit is attached to the spring element. The spring element is transferred from the mounting position into the locking position during insertion of the light housing or the mounting frame in a mounting opening. The actuation unit has a sliding element (30) movably mounted along a guide element (10).
