[origin: EP2322745A1] The device has releasing elements (9) spaced from each other and movement-dependently coupled with each other and provided at a movable furniture part (2) or a furniture body for releasing of an ejector (6). The ejector is exclusively releasable during stop of the releasing elements. The releasing elements are connected by a bar (8) that is axially and rotatably mounted perpendicular to an ejection direction at a rear wall (5) of the furniture part. The releasing elements are designed as angular elements and paddles attached to front sides of the bar and extending into different directions.
