Abstract (en)
[origin: EP2335524A1] The modular shelving (10) comprises at least two shelves (20), arranged horizontally; at least two uprights (30), arranged vertically between said two shelves (20); and an attachment system (40, 31, 41) between said uprights (30) and said shelves (20). It is characterised in that said attachment system comprises at least one fastening element (40) fixed to each of said uprights and a major horizontal profile (21), stably fixed to each of said shelves (20); said major profile comprises at least one grooved guide (22, 23) suitable for partially housing said at least one fastening element (40). The grooved guide allows rapid assembly and ensures extreme freedom in positioning the uprights, which can be arranged according to the preferred configuration in any position along the shelf without jeopardising the solidity of the structure. Moreover, the attachment system is not very bulky and therefore is not very visible.
