Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2336439A1] The support (4) for the drain body (5) is fixed to the wall of a shower by means of some vertical slotted holes (9) permitting the height of the drain to be adjustable. Further openings (10) in the horizontal elements of the support (4) allow fixing of the drain body (5) by means of studs (11) on the drain body (5) engaging these openings (10). The openings (10) in the horizontal elements of the support (4) are also slotted holes such that the position of the drain with respect to the support (4) may be adjusted. The immobilization of the drain body (5) on the support (4) is achieved by clips (12) and nails (13).
