Abstract (en)

[origin: DE102009031414A1] The sill (10) is horizontally oriented and pivotably mounted, where the sill is controlled by pivoting movement of a pivotable window (14) arranged above the sill. Horizontal relocatability takes place by a sliding longitudinal guide between the window and the sill. A transverse guide is provided for variable positioning of the sill in a transverse direction. The pivoting movement of the window takes place by a servomotor. The sill is made up of wood, plastic, metal or stoneware. The servomotor receives a position signal by a sensor arranged at the window.
