Abstract (en)
[origin: EP2341293A2] The household appliance (20) has a housing (7) and a fastening device (9) which is connected with one side with a wall (8) and with another side with the housing to prevent tilting of the housing. A fitting panel is provided which is attached at the wall. The household appliance also has a contact arm which has a contact hook for a connection with the housing. A connecting element brings the fitting panel and the contact arm in connection with each other. The connecting element is a swivel joint.
