Abstract (en)
[origin: EP2353453A1] The body (1) has two sets of wavelike contoured elastic elements (5, 7) arranged on an upper side of the body, and extending over a defined portion of height of the body. The elastic elements are separated by a groove (8), where wave troughs (5a) of the elastic elements are filled with a foam material. The elastic elements of one of the sets are arranged adjacent to each other. Recesses (10) of one of the sets extend in a direction of a lower side of the body, where height of the groove corresponds to height of the set of elastic elements.
