Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2363057A1] The appliance has a door for closing an effective surface of the appliance, and a supply container (14) for storing operating fluid. An upper side of the container is designed as a detachable cover (22) with a fluid level marking (44). The container has a conically-curved surface that is arranged between a base surface (26) and a filling opening (36). Gripping elements (24) are mounted at the supply container, and a control panel is arranged above the effective surface. The container is inserted into a casket and connected with the control panel, where the container has a fluid-tight tub (20).
