Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2364612A2] The applicator (1) has an application area (2) arranged at a free end of a handle and comprising a base body and spike or brush-like application elements. An outer surface of the base body is designed in a club-shape in such a manner that the base body is thickened from a fastening end (8) to a free end (9). The free end of the base body has a dome-form, and a recess (10) i.e. passage recess, is arranged at a side area (11) of the application area, where an inner wall of the base body is turned towards the recess and designed in a planar manner.
