Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2010046131A1] An oval ball, in particular a rugby ball or football having a shell and at least one electronic component or module, which is arranged inside the shell, is held in a predetermined position, and has a transmitter, wherein the at least one electronic module is attached in a form-fitting and/or bonded manner to or in a molded part in the area of the tip or in the area of a valve of the shell. In another embodiment, the module is suspended on nets attached at the tip area of the shell over a large area.
