Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2375523A1] Box assembly to be installed in a wall and intended to house electrical components, which comprises the following: - a hollow flush mounting element that can be mounted in a wall opening and is intended to create a space in which electrical components can be inserted, at least partially; - a mounting flange facing outward, designed to extend around the wall opening once mounted, and fixed to the hollow flush mounting element with a watertight seal that can, to a large extent, be removed with one or more specific post processing operations.
