Abstract (en)
A cosmetic casing assembly has a base assembly (10), a cover (20), an engaging device and a resilient member (30). The base assembly (10) has at least one recess (121) defined in the base assembly (10). The cover (20) is pivotally connected to the base assembly (10). The engaging device is mounted between the base assembly (10) and the cover (20) to hold the cover (20) at a closed condition. The resilient member (30) is pliable, is mounted between the base assembly (10) and the cover (20) and has a first positioning segment (31), a second positioning segment (32) and a bent resilient segment (33). The bent resilient segment (33) is formed between the positioning segments (31,32). Accordingly, the pliable resilient member (30) can provides a gentle force for opening the cover (20) relative to the base assembly (10).
