Abstract (en)
[origin: EP2377446A1] The machine (1) has a dust container (15) fixed in a holder (13) when the holder is provided in a working position (13'). The container is removed from the holder when the holder is provided in an emptying position. A handle (11) is pivoted between the positions and coupled with the holder by a coupling mechanism (17). The mechanism is designed in such a manner that the holder is provided in the working position when the handle is provided in the working position. The holder is provided in the emptying position when the handle is provided in the emptying position.
