Abstract (en)
[origin: EP2211117A1] The method involves using a function device for execution of a program i.e. cooking program. An input device and a display device are designed as a sensor screen or a touch screen (1) of a cooking appliance. Program representatives in the form of virtual vouchers (102G, 103B), are arranged in respective areas of the display device, where each area is in the form of a virtual voucher board (200). Each program representative is changed by touching a part of the area or when moving closer to or away from the part of the area and/or by an input action in a visual presentation. An independent claim is also included for a cooking appliance comprising a heating device.
