Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2010120272A1] A system and methods are provided for providing system care for a computing device. In one embodiment, a process includes detecting one or more operational errors of at least one of a software and hardware function of the computing device by a system care program of the computing device, displaying a system care user interface by the computing device and detecting user selection of the system care user interface. The process may also include determining one or more solutions for the error based on one or more signature profiles of the computing device by the system care program and applying the solution on the computing device by the system care program to correct the one or more errors.
