Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2395160A2] The device (3) has a hanging element (7) attached at a wash basin-side load lifting device (9) i.e. threaded rod (8). Another hanging element (13) is attached in a cover (2) of a wash basin (1). A tie rod (10) connects the latter hanging element with a base body (4). The tie rod comprises teeth (11) that are engaged with an adjusting bolt (23) of the base body such that a distance to the latter hanging element is adjustable by rotation of the bolt. The base body comprises a flat housing (5) that is provided with two housing halves, where the halves are connected by a film hinge. The hanging elements are designed as a hook, an eyelet, a screw, or a nut.
