Abstract (en)
The present invention relates to a recording apparatus and an ink cartridge. The ink cartridge comprises a body with a front side in an installation direction and a rear side facing the front side. The body includes an ink supply unit to supply ink from an ink chamber to the outside. A detection portion is provided to one end side of the front side. The detection portion moves a moving member provided at a cartridge installation portion. The detection portion is detected by a sensor through the moving member during installation of the ink cartridge into the cartridge installation portion.
