The movable elements include a group with a higher inertia movable element (2B) provided with a drive counterweight to drive a lower inertia movable element (2A) of another group of the movable elements. Each of the movable elements comprises a sliding surface arranged to cooperate with a bottom part (5) of the channel, where the bottom part is metal-coated, chromium plated, nickel plated or silvery. An independent claim is also included for a casing assembly comprising a watch case and a glass.
