Abstract (en)
A door hinge (1) for a shower door (2) including a first hinge element (4) and a second hinge element (5). The first hinge element (4) includes a first part (40) hinged to the second hinge element (5) along a hinge axis and a second part (41) movably connected to the first part (40) by an adjustable connection (6). The adjustable connection (6) includes a threaded spindle (60) that extends at an angle between the hinge axis and a direction perpendicular thereto and is configured to selectively pull or push, in use, the second part (41) relative to the first part (40) toward or away from the second hinge element (5).
