Abstract (en)
[origin: EP2422650A1] The unit (1) has bearing units acting among a body rail (10), a center rail (11) and an excerpt rail (12), and engaging rails (4, 5) provided in installed condition during movement of a movable furniture element along opposite directions. A pinion (2) is engaged into one of the engaging rails, where the engaging, body, center and excerpt rails are coupled with each other. A head line exhibits distance to a running surface on an engaging side of the engaging rails, where the distance is increased depending on a shift of the furniture element against a retracted position.
