Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2428601A1] The assembly has a guide needle (2) removed from a support and including an offset drive (4) and needle heads (5). The support includes a receiver for the guide needle. The heads include an alignment lug that is provided at an end in longitudinal direction of the guide needle, and another alignment lug at other end. The lugs are provided at various distances relative to a contact surface of the heads on the support, and the receiver includes sections for the lugs. Depth of a portion is smaller than height of the head.
