Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2428630A1] The panel has an accessory including two mounting plates (35) that are assembled together with a fitting to set an annular zone of the panel under compression constraints, where the panel is monolithic. The mounting plates are conformed to define a contact zone (51), with a circular closed contour (46), around a hole (26). Interior edge of the contact zone is located at a point at distance that is equal to predetermined minimum value of an edge of the hole to define a tightening zone (48) that is away from the hole.
